Introduction

Employers have a duty to protect the safety and health of its employees at the workplace. Lowering safety and health risk is a priority for a sustainable business and also retention of employees. Workplace injury and diseases will result in sufferings and misery to the affected worker. Moreover, the affected worker may require medical treatment to recover and this will also affect the worker’s life and his family as whole. As a result, the productivity and economic of country will reduce significantly. It is therefore essential for all employers to pursue the objective of an occupational safety and health program as a human right of each worker striving towards the achievement of the highest standards of economic, physical, mental and social well-being.

Objectives

- To ensure that the current safety and health practices are beyond OSHA.
- Platform for interaction with DOSH, relevant authorities and Safety & Health practitioners.
- To discuss the current issues and concerns and challenges in the industries and potential future concerns in the field of safety and health.
- To benchmark & adopt the best safe and healthy work culture & tools in the industry.
- To update the industry on OSHA legislations and regulations.
Who Should Attend

This conference is designed for safety and health professionals looking to expand their knowledge as well as for those who are new to the field. Engineers, maintenance staff, facility managers, and others with safety responsibilities will gain invaluable knowledge and ideas. Safety professionals seeking the Continuous Education Program (CEP) recognition will also benefit from attending this Conference.
