2. Regulation 19 of the principal Regulations is amended by substituting for the regulation the following regulation;

(1) In these Regulations, "food additive" means any safe substance that is not normally consumed as a food by itself or used as a typical ingredient of the food, and intentionally introduced into or on a food in order to affect the food's keeping quality, texture, consistency, appearance, odour, taste, alkalinity, or acidity, or to serve any other technological purpose in the manufacture, processing, preparation, treatment, packing, packaging, transport, holding or storage of the food, and that results or may be reasonably expected to result directly or indirectly in the substance or any of its by products becoming a component of, or otherwise affecting the characteristic of the food but shall not include added nutrient, incidental constituent or salt.

(2) For the purpose of these regulations, food additives includes acidity regulator, anticaking agent, antifoaming agent, antioxidant, bleaching agent, bulking agent, carbonating agent, carrier, colour, colour retention agent, emulsifier, emulsifying salt, firming agent, flavouring, flavour enhancer, flour treatment agent, foaming agent, gelling agent, glazing agent, humectant, packaging gas, preservative, propellant, raising agent, sequestrant, stabilizer, sweetener and thickener, as defined under Table I of the Sixth B Schedule.

(3) No person shall import, manufacture, advertise for sale or sell or introduce into or on any food, any food additive other than a permitted food additive:

- (a) any food additive other than a permitted food additive;
- (b) any food additive that is prohibited by these Regulations as prescribed in Table II of the Sixth B Schedule;and

- (c) any permitted food additive which does not comply with the standard for certain permitted food additive prescribed in Table III of the Sixth B Schedule.

Provided that where no standard is prescribed, the purity of the permitted food additive shall conform to the specifications as recommended by the Joint Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations and World Health Organisation (FAO/WHO) Expert Committee on Food Additives (JECFA).

(4) Notwithstanding subregulation (3), the addition of food additive to food is prohibited except where –

- (a) the addition is permitted by these Regulations as prescribed in Table IV of the Sixth B Schedule; or
- (b) the addition is permitted under the Codex Alimentarius; or
- (c) the addition is permitted through a written approval by the Director.

(5) For the purpose of subregulation (4), a reference in these Regulations to addition or use of "other food" in the composition of food for which a standard is prescribed in these Regulations shall not be construed as permission for the use of food additives.

(6) The proportion of the addition of food additive to food shall not exceed the maximum proportion, if any, prescribed under these Regulations. Where no maximum proportion is prescribed, the food additive shall be used in accordance with good manufacturing practice.

(7) Where the use of more than one of such preservatives and antioxidants is permitted by these Regulations, the amount of each shall be such that when expressed as a percentage of the amount permitted singly, the sum of the several percentages does not exceed one hundred

(8) No person shall introduce into or on a food any food additive in such a manner as to conceal any damage to, or any inferiority in the quality of that food.

(9) Notwithstanding anything in these Regulations, a food additive may be present in any food as a result of carry-over from a raw material or ingredient used to produce the food, provided that -

- (a) the additive is permitted by these Regulations to be in any ingredient used in the manufacture of the food;
- (b) the proportion of the additive in any such ingredient does not exceed the maximum proportion if any, permitted by these Regulations for that ingredient;
- (c) the total proportion of the additive in the final product does not exceed the maximum proportion, if any, permitted by these Regulations for that product;

- (d) the food into which the additive is carried over does not contain the additive in a greater quantity than would be the case if the food were made under proper technological conditions and in accordance with good manufacturing practice; and
- (e) the additive carried over is present in the food at a level that is significantly less than that normally required for the additive to achieve an efficient technological function in its own right.

(10) For the purpose of subregulation 11(1)(g), INS refers to a harmonized naming system for food additives developed by Codex Alimentarius and published in Codex Class Names and the International Numbering System for Food Additives, CAC/GL 36.

(11) There shall be written in label on a package of food additive imported, manufactured, advertised for sale or sold as food additive –

- (a) the words "(state the chemical name of the food additive and the INS number) as permitted (state the functional class of food additive)"; provided that in the case of colouring substance or flavouring substance it shall be sufficient to state the common name or appropriate designation of the food additive in place of the chemical name; and
- (b) a statement giving direction for its use; and
- (c) the words 'For Food Use' or a statement substantially similar thereto, in a prominent position on the label.

Functional class	Definition
Acidity regulator	A food additive, which controls the acidity or alkalinity of a food.
Anticaking agent	A food additive, which reduces the tendency of components of food to adhere to one another.
Antifoaming agent	A food additive, which prevents or reduces foaming.
Antioxidant	A food additive, which prolongs the shelf-life of foods by protecting against deterioration caused by oxidation.
Bleaching agent	A food additive used to decolourize food other than flour. Bleaching agents do not include pigments.
Bulking agent	A food additive, which contributes to the bulk of a food without contributing significantly to its available energy value.
Carbonating agent	A food additive used to provide carbonation in a food.
Carrier	A food additive used to dissolve, dilute, disperse or otherwise physically modify a food additive or nutrient without altering its function (and without exerting any technological effect itself) in order to facilitate its handling, application or use of the food additive or nutrient.
Colour	A food additive, which adds or restores colour in a food.
Colour retention agent	A food additive, which stabilizes, retains or intensifies the colour of a food.
Emulsifier	A food additive, which forms or maintains a uniform emulsion of two or more phases in a food.
Emulsifying salt	A food additive, which, in the manufacture of processed food, rearranges proteins in order to prevent fat separation.
Firming agent	A food additive, which makes or keeps tissues of fruit or vegetables firm and crisp, or interacts with gelling agents to produce or strengthen a gel.

Flavouring,	A food additive, which is added to food to impart, modify, or enhance the flavour of food.
Flavour enhancer	A food additive, which enhances the existing taste and/or odour of a food.
Flour treatment agent	A food additive, which is added to flour or dough to improve its baking quality or colour.
Foaming agent	A food additive, which makes it possible to form or maintain a uniform dispersion of a gaseous phase in a liquid or solid food.
Gelling agent	A food additive, which gives a food texture through formation of a gel.
Glazing agent	A food additive, which when applied to the external surface of a food, imparts a shiny appearance or provides a protective coating.
Humectant	A food additive, which prevents food from drying out by counteracting the effect of a dry atmosphere.
Packaging gas	A food additive gas, which is introduced into a container before, during or after filling with food with the intention to protect the food, for example, from oxidation or spoilage.
Preservative	A food additive, which prolongs the shelflife of a food by protecting against deterioration caused by microorganisms
Propellant	A food additive gas, which expels a food from a container
Raising agent	A food additive or a combination of food additives, which liberate gas and thereby increase the volume of a dough or batter.
Sequestrant	A food additive, which controls the availability of a cation.
Stabilizer	A food additive, which makes it possible to maintain a uniform dispersion of two or more components.
Sweetener	A food additive (other than a mono or disaccharide sugar), which imparts a sweet taste to a food.
Thickener	A food additive, which increases the viscosity of a food.
